A special messenger was started for the place on horseback, the roads and creeks being impassable. The landslide was accompanied by a little pile of rocks and a crushed miner.

At the scene of the disaster, the miners were at work endeavoring to reach the interior of the mine. The bodies of the miners were found by the men who were working in the mine. The bodies were found in a pile of rocks, and the miners were crushed to death.

CHRISTMAS EVE.

AN OCCASION OF FESTIVITY AMONG THE LITTLE ONES.

Sunday-School Entertainments Last Evening—Christmas Trees and Other Features.

Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, large numbers of people last evening attended the Christmas festivities in several of the churches, where the children of the Sunday-schools had Christmas trees or other pleasing pastimes. At the Calvary Baptist Church the young people were out in full force. A Christmas tree had been prepared and loaded down with presents for the little ones.

Before the distribution took place an interesting programme was rendered, consisting of recitations by Florence Holden, Ida Davis, Charles Platt, Stella Lowell, Alice Keller, Alice Allen, Lorena Fisher, Nellie Fisher and Wallace Jones.

Dr. C. T. Milliken rendered a vocal solo, which was followed by an anthem by the church choir, consisting of Dr. Milliken, W. E. Osborn, Miss Shubert and Miss Andrews.

The school then sang "Bringing in the Sheaves," and Miss Andrews, a group of young ladies rendered a choice selection.

The pastor, Rev. Mr. Herrick, announced the observance to a request made some time ago, the members of the Sunday school and others had brought a large quantity of groceries and other useful articles for the poor, which would be distributed to-day among deserving families by a committee.

WESTMINSTER PRESBYTERIAN.

The Westminster Presbyterian Sunday-school held their Christmas exercises in their church parlors, which were well thronged. The following programme was rendered: Prayer by the pastor; recitation by Alice Jones, Jessie Logan, Laura Cronkite, Sadie Griffin, dialogue, "Christmas, Past and Present," by two classes; select reading by Miss Annie Laurie.

In behalf of the teachers, C. M. Campbell, the superintendent, presented a few good-natured criticisms, and some pointed suggestive advice by the pastor, and presented with a beautiful scarf-pin.

The evening's exercises concluded with ice-cream and cake served to the scholars, the giving and receiving of presents, and a social time in which all present participated.

SIXTH-STREET METHODIST.

The Sunday-school children of the Sixth-street Methodist church enjoyed a very enjoyable Christmas festival in the basement of the church. There were two Christmas trees laden with all kinds of presents, which were distributed to the little ones. The following programme was rendered:

Song, "Gather Them In," by the school; prayer, recitation, "Bible Gems," by the infant class; song, "Anthem of Glory," recitation, by Willie Wynn; song, "Twas Love That Brought the Savior," by four little girls; song, "The Story of Jesus," recitation, by Alice Stephenson and Edith Renwick.

The entertainment concluded with the melody of "Mother Goose." Then, after a song, Santa Claus dropped through the chimney and distributed the presents.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

At the Congregational Church a large number of the congregation assembled in the lecture-room, where a pleasing entertainment was given. The programme consisted of the features of which were: Singing, by the school; reading, "Christmas," by May Conley; recitation, "The Story of the Nativity," by Merle Reed; recitation, "The Christmas," by Alice Carrington; recitation, "The Christmas," by a young gentleman; "Der Nicht Peinlich Christmas."

The exercises were interspersed with singing, and at their conclusion nuts, candies, cakes, etc., were distributed. The following games of various kinds, in which the young people all indulged with much zest.

THE MARKETS, ETC.

Several of the city markets have made beautiful holiday displays. Those by Messrs. Odel & Herzog and Mohr & York are especially worthy of mention. It is safe to say that no finer displays of meats can be found in any city of the Union. Not only is the quality of the meats of the very best, but the variety and artistic manner in which they are displayed are especially noticeable.

The produce stalls also made excellent displays of their goods.

ON THE STREETS.

Crowds of people thronged the streets in the early part of the evening. The making of packages that were seen traveling towards the residence portion of the city throughout the day, there will be many happy Christmas homes to-day.

At midnight noisy crowds paraded the downtown streets, and with much good, strong lungs made considerable noise, as is usual on such occasions.

LUCKY JACKSON.

Once More He Escapes the Clutches of Samuel Jackson, the slippery negro who has been arrested half a dozen times, and who always manages to get off on one pretense or another, was before Police Judge Buckley again yesterday, and once more demonstrated that he bears a "charmed life," as a police officer put it.

Jackson was this time accused of complicity with Joseph Kelly, another negro, in the robbery of William Matuta, a Japanese youth, last week, of $200.

Matuta took the witness stand, and could not remember much about the affair owing to the fact that he was at the time he was robbed very much under the influence of liquor. He remembered having seen Jackson, but that was all.

THE ELEMENTS.

Signal Observer Barwick Descants Upon the Wind and Weather.

The Signal Service report in this city shows a rising but still low barometer, with southerly winds and showery weather prevailing. The total for this season is now 16.39 inches, as against 9.46 inches up to and including the 31st day of December of last season.

The wind-storm during Monday night and Tuesday morning was the severest that has visited this city since last March, when there was a severe north-west wind that reached a maximum velocity of forty-eight miles per hour, as against forty-two miles per hour for Monday's storm. Since June, 1897, there have been seven wind-storms passed over this city giving a maximum velocity of forty miles per hour and over, and the records show them to be as follows: May 17, 40 miles per hour, from the north; December, 1890, 45 miles per hour, from the southeast; January, 1895, 44 miles per hour, from the southeast; June, 1896, 42 miles per hour, from the northwest; December, 1897, 40 miles per hour, from the southeast; March 1898, 40 miles per hour, from the northwest; December, 1899, 42 miles per hour, from the southeast.

This is seven times in eleven years that a great wind-storm has prevailed in this vicinity, two of those occurring in one year (1897), three in the next year (1898), and the records that get consolidated from the records that show storms as was precipitated upon us the other night may not be repeated again for a year or more, which speaks well for the windless weather that this country usually has.

The weather at 9 o'clock last evening was as follows for the Signal Service station: named: Olympia, southeast, clear and no rain; Portland, northwest, clear and no rain; Roseburg, cloudy and no rain; Red Bluff, southeast, raining.

It is to be hoped that the rainless and cloudless weather now prevailing in the greater portion of the State will continue, and Oregon will soon reach this State and dry up the street crossings, for the benefit of the street car companies, who have been so often on their muddy crossings.

INFLUENCE OF TURKEY.

The "Drinks" All Plead Guilty, and are Waiting for a Feast.

"Handsome Brady, stand up," shouted Clerk Larkin in the Police Court yesterday. Brady, trembling from the effects of his jamboree of the evening previous, obeyed. "You are charged with being drunk, guilty or not?"

"Well, I don't really, now, I don't know whether—"

"Oh, you better plead guilty," interrupted Judge Buckley. "I saw you yesterday." Brady grinned. "Did you really, Judge, did you?"

"Oh, yes; you looked as though you had been eating too much custard pie."

"That's all right; that's all right. I know all about that. I'm sorry, though, that I have been eating too much custard pie in our little down stairs."

"I understand they are going to have turkey down there," said attorney E. C. Hart, who happened in during the examination.

A cloud of dust arose from amidst the comfortable and cozy atmosphere of the courtroom, and a group of men, who were clapping their hands in a most excited manner, and shouting, "Ho, ho, ho, turkey!" and various other similar expressions could now and then be heard about the din. Brady was patted on the back, and cheered for being instrumental in causing the joyous tidings to be made known.

The celebration would probably be gone on yet had not Bailiff Rowland and several police officers jumped into the dock and stopped the festivities.

THE PAYNE BREAK.

Major Heuer and Party of Engineers Begin Their Work.

Major Heuer, of the Government Engineering Corps, and his assistants went to the vicinity of the Payne break, on the Yolo side of the river, yesterday and commenced upon the work of making a thorough investigation of the river's condition at that point and above and below it.

In a conversation with Major Heuer last evening he said he had found a remarkably swift current in the river just below the break and a wide channel on the west side nearly half a mile in depth. On the east or Sacramento side he was surprised to find a current so swift that it was with difficulty the men could stem it with their skill. The break had become so wide that there was not the slightest danger of the current cutting a new channel on the Yolo side, as the water was spreading out over a large surface.

As to closing the break, Major Heuer repeated the opinion heretofore expressed—that it should be closed by means of a levee within its banks. And even then it might prove best to wait until the spring freshets subside. If the break should be closed and high water occur in the American river, with no intervening breaks between the present one and the mouth of the American, it would be necessary to close the Sacramento to be exposed to a serious danger.

The major and his assistants will resume their labors to-day, and the results thereof will be calculated on their return to San Francisco and reported to the War Department through Colonel Mendell.

Notes of the Storm.

During the high water on Monday night a frame house on Q street, between Fifteenth and Sixteenth, occupied by John McCarthy, his wife and two children, was partly wrecked and the furniture ruined. The family narrowly escaped injury, and were sheltered by neighbors.

One of the largest Norwegian pine in Capitol Park was blown down and across the front or main street walk. The same tree fell a few years ago during a similar storm, but was raised and continued to grow. A derrick was yesterday placed in position and the trunk of the tree was again straightened in its place. It seems almost useless, however, to try to make it stand up, as the roots have very little sustaining power. The trunk is now three feet long and of small circumference. When the ground is thoroughly saturated with water there is little chance of the tree standing in the face of a high wind.

AN INTERVIEW.

Mayor Gregory Explains His Position on the River Question.

A RECORD-UNION reporter met Mayor Gregory last evening and asked him concerning the particulars of the interview between himself and Major Heuer, the Government engineer in charge of the present examination of the Sacramento river.

The Mayor's reply was substantially to the effect that the object of Major Heuer's visit was fully discussed, together with the advisability of the possible closing of the Payne break on the Yolo side of the river. It was mutually concurred in by both gentlemen that the work could be accomplished at a greatly reduced cost to the Government at low water stage, and that at this particular time; also, that so far as damage to the Yolo lands was concerned, the stopping of the particular break was not an accomplishment much just now on account of the overflow from other breaks higher up the river. The question of its interference with navigation could be deferred until after the proposed examination is concluded.

The only protest made was by Mr. Humbert, who was within hearing, and who strenuously objected, in the name of the State of California, to any officer or citizen offering an opinion or suggestion to those having the work in charge.

The Mayor said that Major Heuer and himself shortly after the examination and consulted fully as to the merits of the situation. The result was that he received much information from the engineer, and in return assured him that the United States of America would have the work of examination of the river in hand, would receive all possible cooperation by the city of Sacramento, and, he believed, of all others in interest.

The Mayor said that he strongly favors immediate action by the various counties interested, to at once present a strong petition to Congress urging the appropriation of at least $100,000 for the purpose of thoroughly and comprehensively treating the river for the furtherance of its navigation and commerce.

He said that Major Heuer had assured him that when he came to make his report to the Government he would recognize the sentiment of this community regarding the river, and would report to his superiors exactly what it is. He deemed that due to the people living along the river, who are so intimately interested in the protection of the river.

In response to a pointed inquiry the Mayor said Mr. Humbert's interference in the matter does not indicate that he expresses the sentiment of the Board of Engineers, of which he is a member. Mr. Grunsky nor Mr. Reed, who are of the State Commission of Inquiry, having addressed the Mayor on the subject. On the contrary, in response to inquiry made of Mr. Grunsky by the Mayor, the former agreed that it would be inconvenient and undesirable to close the break at this time.

In response to further inquiry Mayor Gregory further said that he only cared for the surprising interference of Mr. Humbert because it might lead to contention that would be of no value to the river or its ultimate improvement.

The Mayor said that he understood that he himself had no right whatever to interfere in the matter nor to proffer his advice; that he had been favored with the privilege of conversing with the Government Engineers, and he had endeavored in this conversation to represent the best interests of Sacramento in the premises. He was, moreover, pleased to say that the Government Engineers had most courteously expressed to him and to his friends their interest in learning the opinions of the people.

REGAN AND THE COAT.

He Didn't Remember, But He Guessed He Must Be Drunk.

"I was very busy in my store last evening," said Julius Lewis in the Police Court yesterday, "when two twins came in. One of them wanted to buy a hat, he said, and the other wanted for him at the door. I was showing the fellow some hats, when I happened to look up and saw the other fellow, an old man, coming in at the door. I ran out and caught him before he got away, and took the coat from him. He was too big for me to hold until the police came, so I let him go."

Recognized him on the street and pointed him out to police officer Cunningham. He said he was a drunk there in the street. Mr. Lewis pointed to a shock-headed, scraggy-whiskered individual who sat shivering in the pen.

Have you any questions to ask this witness?" asked Judge Buckley, turning to the prisoner, who, by the way, travels under the name of Martin Regan.

"No questions," echoed from depths of the whistlers, "only I like to say as he's a real perjury."

"How is that?" asked his Honor.

"Cause he is. I don't recollect nuthin' about takin' no coat. Don't know nuthin' about the business. Don't know where his store is."

"Why, what was the matter with you?"

"Christmas, eh?"

"Um."

"Was the man with you—the one that wanted a hat?"

"Blowed if I know. Some can-canner I guess."

"So you don't recollect anything about it, then?"

"Nuthin'."

"Do you know if it was raining yesterday?"

"None."

"How do you guess you took the coat, anyhow?"

"Think so, Judge."

"I do."

"Guess I did give him five days in jail—just to sober off."

Rolls in the Mud.

AMUSEMENTS.

At the Metropolitan Theater, this afternoon and to-night, the Ewing and Heath Comedy Company will produce "Cad, the Tom-Boy," with Miss Annie Smith in the leading role, supported by Wilson Deal and other members of this excellent troupe. A mechanical steamboat effect for which much is claimed. Miss Smith will be remembered as filling a leading part in "Daily's Vacation" and "Daily's Inside Down" Company when the Miss Dailys and the Delious family were in the troupe. At that time she was entirely successful here. Wilson Deal is an old Sacramento and a good stock actor. Horace Ewing is the dramatic director of the troupe. The company has played the comedy in San Francisco, and we are assured, with complete success, and had the warm approval of the public there. The prices are elsewhere announced, those for the matinee being very low, and no charge for the mechanical steamboat, and reservation can be made all day.

At the Metropolitan Theater Friday and Saturday the "Hans, the Boatman," Company will appear. It has had in San Francisco, and for the matter of that wherever it has played, remarkable success. The piece is the production of Clay M. Greene, the author of the "Golden Giant" and many other very successful dramas. It was written for Charles Arnold, the leading man of the troupe, who, in the dialect of Hans Gordon, made a most successful and, to strongly bring to mind the famous J. K. Emmet. Mr. Arnold is supported by Miss Mary Gordon, Miss Alice Smith, Charles Foster, Julius Kahn, May Harnett, the remarkable child actress, and a dozen others. This child is remarkable from the fact that she never misses her cues, but her "business" on the stage is just what her friends would expect of a professional. Her nightly romps with the trained St. Bernard dog "Nord" are invariably different from those which preceded them. The San Francisco Bulletin said of the troupe and the play that the latter is full of attractive features, and that the former is fully competent. The San Francisco Bulletin said of the piece that the most fastidious theatergoer cannot fail to be pleased with the drama, the action and the singing of Arnold, and the support given him. The Alta said, after pleasant remarks, that while the comedy is light, it contains a strong element of pathos. The piece had great success and long runs in Australia, and also in England, running for an entire year at Terry's and the Strand. Seats for the Sacramento engagement are now on sale.

The Art Gallery will remain closed to-day to give the attaches opportunity to enjoy the Christmas holidays.

Mr. Bushnell continues afternoon and evening to exhibit his troupe of trained dogs and birds at 215 J street.

PRESENTATION.

George W. Ficks Receives a Neat Gift From His Friends.

Last evening the attaches of the editorial and business departments of the Record-Union presented to George W. Ficks, an elegant watch-chain, with diamond setting. The gift was intended as a testimonial of the high regard in which the donors held the recipient, who had just severed his connection with the business department of the paper to enter the Internal Revenue service. The jewel is in the shape of a lock, one side of which is inscribed: "Presented to George W. Ficks, by his friends of the Record-Union."

The Mayor said that he understood that he himself had no right whatever to interfere in the matter nor to proffer his advice; that he had been favored with the privilege of conversing with the Government Engineers, and he had endeavored in this conversation to represent the best interests of Sacramento in the premises.
